THE BOY PROBLEM.

About this time every year thousands of boys are turned out of schools. They are eager for something to do, and they are urged by their parents to get a job. In this town, there are about thirty boys to every boy job. The rest of them are fretting for the first few days, and if some kind of a pop-off valve isn't provided the pent up energy finds an outlet in mischief. This isn't the boy's fault. He's built that way. It's his parents' fault, for not finding a way to keep the boy busy.

A few parents are making a mistake of talking "vacation" to their boys. They are instilling the word into them, which is dangerous for the boy. No boy needs a vacation. He may need a change of environment or employment. You become physically tired, but reading reads you. The change is all you need. You become mentally tired, and then hard manual labor will overcome the trouble.

The boy is tired of school, but schools nowadays are not so confining that the boy's health is endangered. He merely needs a change and to the Dothan boy we know of nothing better than a three month farm course of study.

The good farmer would teach the boy something no school teacher will ever get him to understand.

If the boy is turned over to a farmer now he can rest assured that he will not be bothered with wakefulness during the night. On the farm, bedtime comes immediately after supper. Supper comes as soon as the cows are milked, and the feeding of the stock is over with, and blinding is put in the kitchen to start a fire in the stove at four o'clock the next morning. When four o'clock comes, the farm wakes up. The rooster gives the alarm, the lightning bugs go back to their hiding places, and the whippoorwill's hollow gets a little weaker, as daylight warms him, and the farm bell wakes up the tenants and hired hands. Within forty minutes the good gear is on the mule, and the boy is riding him down a turn-row, making a noise with his mouth that he can't sing. He wipes the dew from his plow handle with his shirt sleeve and starts business. He has opened up for the day. About eleven-thirty is taking out time, and one to one-thirty is going back time. Every boy plows till the sun goes down. That's a day's work. By the time he gets back to the house, then feeds up the hogs, draws about forty buckets of water, cuts some wood from seasoned oak, supper's ready. And he's ready. He's good and ready, in fact. He has been ready for supper for an hour or so. And when supper's over, and his feet have been washed and scrubbed off, he's ready for bed. It doesn't seem like he's been asleep, but when he wakes up tomorrow he's been out there before he's been called, and asked to start on the day's activities again.

A boy on the farm doesn't do the things that boys in town do. He doesn't plow every day. Some days he hoes. Some days it rains, and then he shucks corn, or shells it, and when the rain is over, he breaks up a potato patch and sets out potato daws, and on off days, when there isn't much doing in the field, he works the potato patch and plows out the cane and the garden, which isn't regular work, so considered, but just "piddling about the house."

But there are always some plum trees down by the cross fence, or some early peach trees, and lots of black berries, and dew berries, that come on during the spring, and later, plenty of water melons and other interesting truck for boys. And nearly every boy in this country, lives close enough to a water hole to spend some time Saturday afternoon, or the dinner hour, damming it up, and floating a boat on it, but they never do this with full consent of their mothers. Dad don't care, after you learn to swim. It is hard work, learning to swim before dad finds out you're practicing, but every boy succeeds wonderfully well.

The boy who spent three months in the country might learn:

How many ears of corn will shell a bushel; how many ears of corn should be given a mule, and how much water a mule should drink. He might learn how to build a fire in the stove that would get quick results; he might learn how to make a hive of bees "pitch" when they swarm, and he might learn how to rob the stanzas, and when this should be done. He would learn, probably where, the mucking bird that sings in the fig tree every night builds its nest, and how many eggs it usually lays. He might know the difference between a yellow hammer and a white back, or a saw-sucker, and if real particular, might find the partridge's nest, and learn how the old ones fool you by playing cripple, when you come upon the dove of little ones.

There is no limitation to a boy's learning on a farm. It is the biggest college the world has ever known, and has more students. A post-graduate course of 3 months would help the town boy as nothing else would. If he didn't learn anything but how to milk, or how to harness a horse to a buggy, or how to tie a hamestring, it is more than he would learn loafing the streets with undesirable citizens' boys.

When he comes back in September, he would be sunburned; he wouldn't know the latest soda water drinks, or what the movies were showing, but he will have forgotten some of the things he shouldn't forget, and he would probably know when to cut oats, when to bale them, when to pull fodder, and how many pounds of seed cotton to the bale, and a hundred other things not in the town curriculum. And that appetite! That alone would be worth the experiment.

The Cost of Honor.
Hon. Thomas E. Kilby, recently nominated for lieutenant-governor, spent $2,970 in the primary. The pay of the position is $200. Mr. Kilby is a rich man, and he justly believes the honor of presiding over the state senate is worth that much money. A poor man, however, would doubtless find that much money more convenient to have around the house.—Florence Times.

Market for Eggs.
A merchant in a nearby town is advertising that he wishes to buy 1,000 dozen eggs at twenty cents per dozen. Do we see Florida poultrymen shipping them? There is a clear profit to be made on every dozen of eggs sold at twenty cents per dozen; that is, for table use.—Florida News-Democrat.

Should Produce More Chickens and Eggs.
With eggs bringing 20 cents per dozen and small frying size chickens selling at 35 cents each in the local market it doesn't seem that it would need any further argument to induce our farmers and truckers to devote a little more attention to the production of chickens and eggs.—Florida News-Democrat.

COUGH TWO YEARS OLD.

Yields to Vinol. Head Why.

Strong vigorous men and women hardly ever catch cold; it's only when the system is run down and vitality low that colds and coughs take hold.

Now isn't it reasonable that the right way to cure a cough is to build up your run down condition again?

Mrs. D. A. McGee, of Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a chronic cold and cough which kept me awake nights for two years and I felt tired all the time. Vinol cured my cough and I feel stronger in every way."

The reason why Vinol is so efficacious in such cases is because it contains in a delicious concentrated form all the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, with tonic, blood building iron added.

Chronic coughs and colds yield to Vinol because it builds up the weakened, run-down system.

You can get your money back any time if Vinol does not do all we say.

HAVE A GOOD ROADS DAY.

Birmingham, Ala., May 27.—
(Special.)—Several weeks ago Secretary J. A. Rountree sent a request to the probate judges and county commissioners in the 67 counties in the state, asking them in the name of the Alabama Good Roads Association, to observe August 14-15th as Good Roads Days, and requested them to pass a resolution calling upon the people to observe these days and giving instructions to road officials to work the roads on these days. Already over 20 county commissioners and probate judges have written that Good Roads Days will be observed in their respective counties and they had worked up considerable interest. It is to be hoped that every county in the state will observe these days and that at least 100,000 people will work the roads

throughout the state. The newspapers, city and county officials are being urged to take active steps to make Good Roads Days a success.

NEW CENTURY CLUB MEETING

The last meeting of the New Century Club for the year was held on Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. J. T. Truwick's, with Mrs. W. S. Wilson as hostess.

A short business session was held at which Mrs. Ed Malone's resignation was tendered and accepted; Mrs. J. V. Brown was elected to fill this vacancy.

The year books for the coming year were distributed, the club work being the study of "Les Misérables" by Victor Hugo, and the French Revolution.

Roll call was answered to by "Who's Who and Why in the History of the Nineteenth Century."

The reading of Kipling's "Recessional" by Mrs. Edward Passmore was thoroughly enjoyable.

The conclusion of the "Mitt on the Floor," was given by Mrs. H. T. Ghent, assisted by Mrs. H. C. Williams, Mrs. F. H. Culver and Mrs. George Malone.

"What we have learned from the year's study," was the discussion led by Mrs. J. H. Young.

Concluding the program was the farewell address from the retiring president, Mrs. A. Y. Malone.

Mrs. Davie's paper, "The Place of Vanity Fair in Literature and its Appeal to Our Own Times," was selected as the best paper of the year, and it is to be sent to the State Committee to compete for the prize paper in the Alabama Federation.

At the close of the program a refreshing ice course was served. The club adjourned to meet September 15th.

D. A. Q. CLUB

ENTERTAINED

The members of the D. A. Q. Club were graciously entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. H. H. Walker.

The spacious back porch, where the tables were arranged for the games of Auction, was most attractive in the decorations of ferns and palms.

At the final count, Mrs. J. S. Sherman had highest score, receiving the club prize, silk hose, while the guest prize, also silk hose, was won by Mrs. Cleveland Brinkley.

At the close of the afternoon a delightful luncheon consisting of stuffed tomatoes, chicken loaf, asparagus, crackers, iced tea, cream and cake was served. Mrs. W. H. Yarbrough and Mrs. Burkes assisted Mrs. Walker.

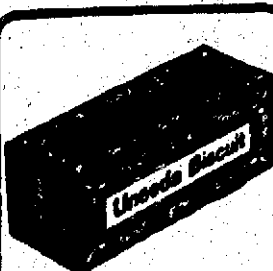

The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. J. S. Sherman, Miss Gussie Grimes, Mrs. Morris Ford, Mrs. Quinn Nix, Mrs. Cleveland Brinkley, Mrs. Ernest Bussey, Mrs. Shelly Strickland, Miss Idoline Brown, Mrs. Eric Gellerstedt, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. T. H. McIntyre and Miss Alice McIntyre.

IN COMPLIMENT TO MISS GRIMES

Miss Gussie Grimes was the inspiration for a delightful party of Wednesday morning at which Mrs. Cleveland Brinkley entertained.

The large reception hall was simply but attractively decorated in bawls of shasta daisies and nasturtiums.

Auction Bridge was played at three tables. The club prize silk hose was won by Mrs. Gellerstedt, and the guest prize, a box of cov-players, and the affair was in every way delightful.

Miss Gussie Grimes making top score was given a lace handkerchief while the consolation, a deck of cards, fell to Mrs. Hugh Smith.

After the games a delightful ice course was served to Mrs. C. S. Tutwiler, Mrs. Caughlan, Mrs. J. S. Sherman, Miss Gussie Grimes, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mrs. George Heller and Mrs. Quinn Nix.

Miss Record of Fayetteville, Tenn., is the guest of Miss Blanche McElvey and Mrs. Collins.

Mrs. C. O. Golson will return tonight from a several weeks' visit to relatives in Troy.

Miss Virginia Best is the guest of Miss Naugher and Mrs. A. T. Marchman.

Little Miss Nellie Goff of Bainbridge, Ga., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Q. Frazier.

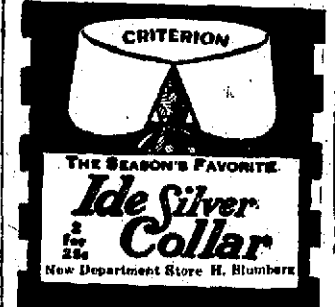

Friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. Will Frazier, who has been ill for some time is rapidly improving.

Average Yield Could Be Doubled

If the average acre yield of farm land in the south could be trebled, the so-called "Corn Belt," which has made the farmers of Illinois and Iowa rich, would be moved to the south. The man who had more to do with increasing the acre yield of Illinois than any other man Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins, until recently head of the agricultural college of the University of Illinois, is on record as saying that the "Corn Belt" States never have equaled and never can equal the possible yield of corn in the south when soil limitations are removed by proper fertilization.—Baldwin Times.

PRAYER MEETING CALLED OFF

There will be no prayer service at the First Baptist Church this evening on account of the commencement exercises at the High School building.

We refer those who have not Banked with us to those who HAVE!

A National Bank must conduct its business according to the laws laid down by the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT at Washington, called the National Banking act. Restrictions for the safety of depositors are embodied in this law, and the U. S. Treasury Department, through its Bank Examiners, investigate National Banks regularly.

Besides there are men of character and financial responsibility behind our bank.

DO YOUR BANKING WITH US.
